

Collections Specialist

Axsesstoday is a specialist provider of funding solutions for Australian businesses primarily operating in the transport and hospitality industries.

Our specialty lies in helping small businesses equip themselves for success, priding ourselves in being 'unbank-like', by making equipment finance faster, easier and fairer for customers.

We were previously ASX listed and experienced rapid growth before facing challenges which led to us being acquired by Cerberus Capital Management, L.P. and its affiliates, a global leader in alternative investing.

Under Cerberus ownership, we are repositioning ourselves to capitalise on the growing opportunity in non-bank asset financing with investment into the business and its people

The role:

We are looking for a top-notch Collections Specialist to provide collections support to our Head of Collections. The role plays a key part in the mitigation of adverse risk through the collections process, increasing cash flow and managing bad debt in line with policy. This role will focus on key collections strategies and performance capabilities to assist in the reduction of outstanding debts. You will provide recommendations and assistance in the delivery of projects to enhance collections and will provide assistance in the development and implementing the future vision for collections and recoveries.

You:

To be successful in this role, you will have at least five years' experience in a fast-paced Collections and Recoveries environment and demonstrated experience in successful debt collection, mercantile and legal recoveries across a range of debt profiles. You will understand ACCC and ASIC Debt Collection Guidelines and be knowledgeable of the legal obligations of commercial business entities. Exceptional negotiation and stakeholder management skills will be key to success in this role.

If you are interested in this role, please contact Juliette Long, People & Culture, at:

Juliette.long@axsesstoday.com.au